Convicted in death of woman

Although acquitted of murder, Norman Pierre Pitt, 18, St. Louis, was convicted at 5 p.m. Friday of voluntary manslaughter and armed violence in the Jan. 27, 1979, slaying of Jacquelyn Faye Shipley, 17, who was found on the Venice-owned McKinley Bridge.

The verdict was rendered by a jury of eight men and four women in the Madison County Circuit Court. The panel deliberated for four hours following three days of testimony.

No sentencing date has been set. Pitt could be ordered to serve up to 30 years in prison for armed violence and up to seven years for voluntary manslaughter.

Assistant State's Attorney Richard Rybak contended that Miss Shipley, a St. Louisan, was intentionally shot four

President budgets for lock, dam

The new federal budget proposal being submitted to Congress today by President Jimmy Carter includes $43 million for work on the lock and dam being constructed two miles downstream from Alton Locks and Dam. Delayed six years, the project has survived a court test and now is being allowed to proceed despite a court appeal by railroads and environmental groups which oppose the Mississippi River facilities. Proponents include the Carter administration, the Army Corps of Engineers, and waterway groups that cite river traffic congestion and delays.

Last year, Congress approved the initial $20 million of the $300 million replacement project, and preliminary work has begun on the first cofferdam. A completion date of 1987 is being projected.

$394,163 needed to proceed with overpass

By GARY SCHNEIDER
of the Press-Record

Hopes for construction of a 19th Street overpass brightened considerably when two bids for the project were opened by the Illinois Department of Transportation in Springfield Friday—and the lowest bid was about one-half million dollars lower than the only bid received during the first round of bidding in November.

Millstone Construction Co. of St. Louis was the low bidder Friday, offering to build the structure for $5,942,363, or 4.9 percent higher than the engineers' estimate of $5,663,000.

The bid is still $394,163 higher than the maximum amount of money the city currently has available for the construction. Sources for that amount are to be explored.

City officials feel they have about $5,548,200 available from various grants and sources, including a maximum of $1.7 million from Granite City Steel. The steel firm has offered between $1.3 million and $1.7 million, so a firm figure has not yet been determined.

No Granite City Council meeting is scheduled for tomorrow night, so by the next meeting Feb. 5 the aldermen and Mayor Paul Schuler will have had 10 days to consider the new bid and potential ways to raise the nearly $400,000 still needed for the project.

Since the bid is only 4.9 percent above the engineers' estimate of the construction cost, it is expected to be acceptable to the Department of Transportation. As a result, the state grants offered if there is an acceptable bid will be available.

However, the city must secure all of the needed funds for the construction, before the grants will be released.

The newest bid by Millstone is $458,141 lower than its initial bid of $6,400,504 opened Nov. 30. Millstone was the sole bidder in the first round.

At Friday's bid opening, two bids were opened, including Millstone's. The other bid was from Helmkamp Excavating and Trucking Co. of Wood River for $6,690,860.

The low bid comes as a relief to some city officials after dire predictions at the last council meeting that citizens should not get their hopes up too high when the bids were opened.

"Apparently the overpass is in serious trouble," Mayor Schuler told the council Jan. 22. He noted that the engineers' new estimate of the cost of the project, $5,663,000, was up $310,000 since the first round of bidding Nov. 30, when the estimate was $5,353,000.

The possibility that the city could finance the difference between available funds and the construction cost by selling general obligation bonds may have been harmed by a recent challenge to the city's method of paying attorney fees related to bond issues. Schuler told the council.

"Some doubt has been cast on our bonding procedures and perhaps the bonding companies won't want to pick up our bonds," he stated.

After the meeting, the mayor told the Press-Record the city retains its AA rating for bonds, but said recent allegations by three aldermen, the street superintendent and a County Board member could affect the willingness of bond buyers to purchase city bonds. "If they think we are squabbling and are not together on this, it is possible they might turn us down," the mayor commented.

Also, some citizens and council

Tax replacement begins

The Venice School District has received a check for $93,662 from state taxes, the first of four quarterly checks expected this year to replace revenue lost through abolishment of corporate personal property taxes.

Supt. of Schools Robert N. Vickers reported receiving the check to the Venice Board of Education at its meeting Thursday night.

"This certainly will help us with our immediate financial problems," the administrator said.

He said the initial payment appeared to be "slightly more than was expected," but noted that subsequent checks could be for smaller amounts. However, Vickers said, he was not really sure how the replacement taxes are being apportioned and noted that at one point he was told by state education authorities the first check probably would represent between 11 percent and 15 percent of the total amount for the year.

In other action at Thursday's abbreviated meeting, a contract was awarded for replacement of a section of the Venice Grade School roof to Whitehead Roofing and Insulation Co., Cahokia, which submitted a low bid of $7,870.

The next closest bid, amounting to $8,975, was submitted by Biebel Bros. Roofing Contractors.

Vickers said wind apparently lifted the roof, causing leakage and other damage last summer and fall, with a windstorm further damaging the 20 by 40 foot section Dec. 7.

A check for $7,625 already has been

$1 billion job and training program for ages 16-21

President Jimmy Carter's proposal for a new $1 billion employment and training initiative serving 450,000 disadvantaged young people is "an unprecedented commitment to providing real opportunity for the youth of this country," Secretary of Labor Ray Marshall is asserting.

In a statement coinciding with the announcement at the White House, Marshall said the program, designed primarily to assist out-of-school youths aged 16-21, "marks the next important step in the administration's continued efforts to deal with the critical problem of youth unemployment."

Based on experience gained from programs carried out under the administration-proposed Youth Employment and Demonstration Projects Act (YEDPA) of 1977, the new program will provide a broad array of employment-related services to economically disadvantaged youths.

Depending on individual needs of the participants, services will include counseling, testing, job placement, in-school work experience, and intensive training and employment services.

Training will be provided in both residential and non-residential settings, as well as on-the-job in the private sector.

Marshall said the administration is requesting $300 million in funds to administer the program during 1981, with a goal of increasing that amount to $1 billion in 1982.

When the program is fully implemented, the 450,000 young people served will bring the total of youths aged 14-21 participating in all Labor Department youth programs to more than 2.5 million.

About $4 billion is currently being spent on youths through YEDPA. YEDPA and other activities carried out under the Comprehensive Employment and Training Act, Marshall reported.

YEDPA programs alone, he said, have accounted for 25 percent of the increase in teenage employment and 75 percent of the increase in black teenage employment since 1977.

The labor secretary said the proposed youth employment and training initiative emphasizes serving out-of-school youths most in need of direct jobs and training assistance.

Performance benchmarks will be established "to be sure that as youths pass through our programs, they not only learn something but can prove it to employers when they apply for a job," Marshall said.

Local program administrators will have direct financial incentives to improve program performance and serve priority needs. Funds will be concentrated on the most distressed areas to improve the employability of needy young people, he added.

Marshall said the proposal "makes good economic sense" because it answers the nation's need for the productive work effort of young people.

During the 1980s, he said, the number of young people aged 16-21 will decrease by 4.4 million, but the number of minority youths will continue to grow.

"Unless we intervene now to reverse the severe employability problems of many of these disadvantaged youths, we may find ourselves having a serious skill shortage at the same time that an important part of our potential labor force remains idle or underemployed. This is a situation we should not, and need not, tolerate," the secretary said.

MASTER CHARGE SETS RECORD DURING 1979

Business volume on the Master Charge credit card during 1979 in the five-state area which includes metropolitan St. Louis was a record $1,230,332,000, an increase of 14 percent over 1978. The average transaction was $29.60, up almost $2 over the previous year.

December's Christmas period accounted for the peak month of the year, with volume of $139,455,000 resulting in an average transaction of $32.25. December business was more than $7 million higher than the same month a year ago. Over 65,000 merchant outlets honor Master Charge throughout the five-state service area.

Landfill bond forfeit sought

The Illinois Environmental Protection Agency (IEPA) has filed suit in St. Clair County Circuit Court against SCA Services, Inc., and SCA Services of Illinois, to request forfeiture of a $300,000 performance bond.

The suit seeks bond forfeiture from SCA Services of Illinois as the result of non-compliance with an Illinois Pollution Control Board order in November.

The Pollution Control Board order required SCA of Illinois to comply with the terms of a stipulation and proposal of settlement filed with the board in August 1978.

The settlement called for the firm to properly cover a closed portion of a landfill located adjacent to Interstate 55 near State Route 203 north of East St. Louis and South of Madison.

IEPA attorneys cite state law calling for two feet of compacted, suitable material as final cover to properly close a sanitary landfill.

"Improperly closed landfills pose not only an environmental menace, but also a serious health threat," John Moore contends. He is manager, Division of Land-Noise Pollution Control, IEPA.

A performance bond was executed by SCA Services to insure compliance with the settlement.

Bond is to be forfeited in the event SCA of Illinois failed to fully comply with each and every term and condition in the settlement, the IEPA said.

Durbin youth in fatal fall

Madison County Sheriff's deputies are investigating the death of Laurence F. Durbin, 20, of Highland, Ill., a passing motorist, who telephoned police about a person lying in the roadway at Old Alton Road, directly under the Interstate 270 highway overpass at 4 p.m. Saturday.

Dick Mizell, a deputy coroner for Madison County, pronounced him dead at the scene.

Authorities say they have not been able to determine under what circumstances he fell; no foul play is thought to have occurred.

He is the son of Herbert F. Durbin and Mary Durbin of Highland and has 12 surviving brothers and sisters.

The Durbin family is active in the Boy Scouts and other youth programs in the Highland area and the Cahokia Mound Scout Council.

Funeral services are planned at 10 a.m. Tuesday at St. Paul Catholic Church, Highland.

Appeals to witnesses succeeds

An appeal by Granite City police the Jan. 3 Press-Record asking two witnesses of a fatal hit-and-run accident to contact police was successful and led to a great deal of additional information about the accident, a police department spokesman said this week.

A detective investigating the Christmas Eve fatal striking of James L. Stewart, 64, by a car in the 1300 block of Edwardsville said a man and a woman who entered Baker's Drive-In moments after the accident were being sought, since the woman was very upset and crying about the accident and they told an employee to call an ambulance.

They then left when the employee turned to use the telephone, police were told. "We believed either they witnessed the accident or they were in the car which struck Mr. Stewart, so we needed to talk to them," the spokesman said.

The afternoon the appeal was issued in the Press-Record for the couple to come forward, it was read by a relative of the couple. It was several days before she could contact them, since they were vacationing in the Ozarks.

Immediately upon their return, they were shown the article and went to the Granite City police building to talk to investigators.

"We learned a great deal from them. They were not in the car which struck Mr. Stewart, but they did help answer many of our questions and brought the case much closer to a successful completion."

"We would like to thank the Press-Record for its aid in this case and whenever we need help," the police spokesman said.

Ainad Shrine Temple elects

At the annual meeting of the Nobility of Ainad Shrine Temple on Thursday night at the Mosque in East St. Louis, the 8,600-noble group elected Ray Tibbs, a Mt. Vernon oil executive, to be their potentate for 1980.

He succeeds R. H. "Dick" Ervay, Granite City restaurant owner. Tibbs is the Shell Oil Co. distributor for the three counties that surround Mt. Vernon, and has been in that field of work for many years. He was born in Mulberry Grove and was schooled there prior to moving to Mt. Vernon, where he started the Ray Tibbs Oil Co.

He lives at 18 N. Highland, Mt. Vernon, with his wife, Lorena.

They have a married daughter, Kathy Manssey, wife of a Navy officer in Pensacola, Fla., and a stepson, Don Fahrenholtz of Mt. Vernon.

Others elected and appointed at the Thursday night meeting included: Donald Adams of Granite City, a glass dealer, to chief rabbi; Mark Moreton of Freeburg, a concrete pipe distributor, assistant rabbi; Bill Parker of Fairfield, an oil engineer and businessman, high priest and prophet; and Gene Morris of DuQuoin, a drug store owner, Oriental guide.

Past Potentate Jack Dempsey of Granite City was elected recorder, while Past Potentate Ervay will serve as treasurer of Ainad. Clarence V. Tolley of O'Fallon will serve his 17th year as chaplain.

Joseph W. Barnes Jr. of the Mosque in East St. Louis, the first ceremonial master, will handle the parades of the Temple for the coming year.

Orville E. Hommert of Granite City is captain of the guard, and the new outer guard will be Bill Piper of Belle Rive, completing the 13-member Divan of Officers.

Elected to Imperial Council representative positions were Potentate Tibbs, Chief Rabbi Adams, Assistant Rabbi Moreton and Past Potentate Edward G. Maag, general counsel for the Imperial Shrine, plus Past Potentate J. C. Nichols, who is emeritus of the Imperial Council.

Selection of William H. "Bill" Piper as outer guard places him on the ladder of offices eventually leading to the position of potentate. Ainad, which was organized in 1912 and received its charter in 1913, has 38 Shrine clubs and 38 Shrine units in Southern Illinois, serves the state from across Interstate 70, extending south to Cairo and to both sides of the state. The Shrine, known for the Shriners hospitals for crippled children, is composed of Master Masons who have traveled through the Scottish Rite, or York Rite, and then come into the Shrine.

The 18 orthopedic hospitals and three burns centers need more than $53 million in 1980 to meet their budget, and they will take care of more than 12,000 children free of any cost whatever.

There are 181 Shrine temples in North America. Ainad sent 311 children to the St. Louis Unit in 1979, from 76 communities in Southern Illinois, and Ainad is transporting 53 children back and forth for clinic visits to the Cincinnati Burns Hospital in the Ohio city, also at no cost to the children or parents.

Ainad sent more than $100,000 in "Bonds for Braces" to the St. Louis hospital last year. Under this unique program as government Series E bond is bought in the name of the hospital, when it matures, it gives at least $4 for each $3 spent; under the 1980 government program it will give $2 for $1.

Ainad has given more than $3 million to the program with the help of the DeMolays, Job's Daughters and Rainbow Girls as well as other Masonic family groups.

Installation of the new Nobles of the Divan will take place at the Mosque on Saturday, Feb. 9, starting with a dinner at 6 p.m. Entertainment will follow the presentation, which will start at 8 p.m. Dancing will conclude the evening.

The Ainad Mosque, at 609 St. Louis Ave., was dedicated in 1923 and is one of the largest downtown buildings in East St. Louis, containing more than 15 large meeting rooms plus offices, a dining room that seats more than 1,000, and a large auditorium that seats 2,700.

Hearing on air quality

The East-West Gateway Coordinating Council will conduct a joint public hearing on its proposed 1981 water quality management program (Missouri area) and 1981 air quality program (bi-state region) from 10 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. on Friday, Feb. 8, at the Gateway Council offices.

The proposed air quality program will affect the entire Gateway Council region: Madison, Monroe and St. Clair counties in Illinois and the Missouri Counties of Franklin, Jefferson, St. Charles and St. Louis and St. Louis City. The proposed water quality program will affect only the Missouri portion of the region.

The programs are scheduled to begin on July 1, 1980.

Purpose of the public hearing is to provide the Gateway Council with citizen input and comments on how both programs can be efficiently and effectively administered.

The East-West Gateway Coordinating Council is the regional planning agency for the metropolitan St. Louis area. It has been designated the lead agency for planning and coordinating environmental quality improvement programs.

The Gateway Council is located at 112 N. 4th Street, Pierce Building, 12th floor, in downtown St. Louis. For more information, Quad-Cityans may contact Sheila Kilgore at Gateway at 314-421-4220.

Elected boards and bigger role are sought for education service regions

Improving educational services to school districts and increasing local control over those services are the goals of a plan for Educational Service Regions approved Thursday in Springfield by the Illinois State Board of Education.

The board's report, outlining general principles for reshaping Educational Service Regions, will be submitted to the Illinois General Assembly Feb. 1, as directed by House Bill 2420.

However, the board requested that its study of intermediate services be authorized to continue until Dec. 1 in order to make detailed legislative proposals on the structure and functions of the regions.

To eliminate the duplication which exists in the present structure for providing intermediate educational services, the report recommends that each Educational Service Region be designated as the primary intermediate educational structure in Illinois.

The board identified eight separate networks which now provide intermediate services to local school districts.

The report said services overlap in meeting specific needs, such as special education, or in providing a specific service, such as technical assistance.

The report endorses shifting many programs now administered at the state level to the regional level, moving these programs closer to the local districts they serve.

A study commission, chaired by Dr. James Nowlan, a former legislator and education advisor to Governor James Thompson, earlier recommended this action.

Also recommended is the replacement of Regional Boards of School Trustees with elected policy and governance boards for each educational service region.

As with local school boards, the elected board would be responsible for hiring a regional school superintendent to administer intermediate-level services for schools.

Board members said the suggested structure would increase local control and accountability of the service regions.

At present, the 57 regional school superintendents are elected officials, but Regional Boards of School Trustees have no policy-making role in relation to the activities of the educational regions.

The local region consists of Madison County, three are 102 counties, some served by multi-county regions.

The board did not recommend a specific number of regions but instead suggested that the number of regions be based on criteria which will assure efficient, effective and equitable delivery of intermediate educational services to school districts.

The board, however, did recommend that the Cook County Educational Service Region be restructured to form three regions in Cook County outside of Chicago, with the City of Chicago treated as a separate region.

This idea was based on Cook County's dense population and the number of school districts.

The board strongly emphasized in its report that Educational Service Regions should not engage in activities which are the responsibility of local school districts, except upon the request of a local district.

The board believes that statutory responsibilities for the regions should allow for flexibility in developing and administering programs responsive to the unique needs of each area of the state.

Other board recommendations include: —The establishment of boundaries for Educational Service Regions should take into account such factors as traditional working relationships, geography, roads and highways, population and demand for services, and the critical mass of staff and resources necessary to provide the services.

—The student population of the region should be considered the primary factor when population figures are used as a size determinant.

—The size of the region should not require travel of more than about one hour from its center to the extreme edge of the region.

The board's recommendations are based on information gathered from public hearings, review of numerous studies previously conducted on Educational Service Regions, and the report of the Nowlan commission.

A 15-member group of citizens assigned to review the structure and functions of the service regions.

Profit comes first

By JOAN MURARO
SPRINGFIELD—An official shift in emphasis from rehabilitation to profit-making will be recommended for the state's prison industries program by a special legislative committee.

The group, chaired by Rep. Anne Willen, D-La Grange, met in Springfield recently and heard testimony about both the state's prison industries situation and the operation of the federal prison industries program as it operates at the U.S. maximum security prison at Marion in southern Illinois.

Ronald D. Shevlin, of Caseyville, business representative of Laborers Local 106 testified at length about the operation at Marion, which is "100 percent profitable" and "one of the best" which is large enough and sophisticated enough to handle a recent order for 25,000 metal desks.

Howard Skolnik, head of the prison industries program for Illinois, discussed the current status, and future outlook, for that often troubled operation.

Illinois' corrections industries program is mandated to be self-supporting but usually operates heavily in the red, requiring appropriated funds for supplies and civilian personnel payroll. There are presently about 650 inmates working, statewide, in the program, which has been budgeted for fiscal '81 for $3.7 million. The budget for fiscal year '80, by contrast, was $455,000, Skolnik said.

He said part of the increase was for start-up costs for industry operations at new prisons now under construction at Hillsboro and Centralia, and for expansion

How to REDUCE the TAX BITE on Federal Estate Taxes.

FEDERAL ESTATE TAXES are imposed on the transfer of property. So, as a general rule, if you can reduce the number of transfers, you can reduce the taxes in your estate. Trusts will help accomplish this purpose. So if the total property you own, including life insurance and any jointly owned assets, exceeds about $147,000, you will be interested in the table shown here. It sets out the actual dollar savings possible when using Trusts.

Adjusted Gross Estate	Total Federal Estate Tax No Trust	Total Federal Estate Tax Using Trusts	Savings for Your Family
$ 200,000	$ 6,600	$ 0-	$ 6,600
300,000	37,200	0-	37,200
400,000	68,000	13,200	54,800
500,000	113,000	42,800	70,200
1,000,000	331,401	197,600	133,801

The above figures assume that a married man dies after 1980, and where no trust is involved he leaves the entire estate outright to his wife, who then leaves it to their children. Maximum credit for state death taxes is included.

You may have an estate tax problem. Our trust publication can tell you more about proper planning to reduce taxes in your estate. Please fill out and return this application form for your free information on saving estate taxes.

Yes, the savings can be tremendous! This is the reason we recommend that every person who has an estate subject to Federal tax should consider leaving his property in Trust for his family, instead of leaving it outright. Careful estate planning makes many other savings possible in the areas of income and gift taxes. It is just good sense to have your attorney and our Trust Department work together to custom design a Family Trust to suit your needs.

'Cry Havoc' or 'Cry Wolf'?—The nature of America's energy crisis

By S. DAVID FREEMAN

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the second in a series of 15 articles exploring "Energy and the Way We Live." In this article, S. David Freeman, who headed the Ford Foundation's Energy Policy Group, discusses the nature and extent of our energy problems and some possible solutions. This series, written for COURSES BY NEWSPAPER, a program of University Extension, University of California, San Diego, was funded by a grant from the National Endowment for the Humanities, with supplemental funding from the National Science Foundation.

Copyright (c) 1980 by the Regents of the University of California.

1. "CRY HAVOC" OR "CRY WOLF"? THE NATURE OF THE ENERGY CRISIS

In 1859 Edwin Drake started producing oil from a well in Pennsylvania, and the world has been running out of oil ever since.

Oil is a "nonrenewable" energy source; there's only a certain amount of it on earth. The same goes for natural gas, coal and uranium.

In 1978, these four finite sources supplied about 96 percent of U.S. energy consumption. Almost half came from oil and a fourth from natural gas. Coal accounted for 18 percent and nuclear, 4 percent. Hydro (water) power and other renewable resources supplied only about 4 percent of U.S. energy and 6 percent of the world's energy.

The current energy shortage, however, is not the result of the limited supply of nonrenewable fuels. Rather, it results from the failure of production to keep up with growing demand because of economic, environmental, and political constraints.

These constraints make it impossible for the United States to produce its way out of the energy shortage unless we curb our demand.

PRODUCTIVE CAPACITY

Energy supply is usually discussed in terms of the quantities of discovered fuel remaining in the ground, called "reserves," or the ultimate size of the energy source, called "resources."

However, it is productive capacity—the amount that can be delivered to each home or car or industry each day—that is the key figure. Oil in the ground might just as well be mud if the capacity and incentive to produce and sell it don't exist.

The pace at which wells, mines, refineries, and other links in the energy chain are developed depends partly on the price paid by consumers. As long as Middle Eastern oil was selling at low prices that reflected its low production costs and was readily available, there was little incentive to develop domestic alternatives.

Now that imported oil is priced much higher by OPEC and its availability is unreliable, it is necessary for us to use less and to produce more costly domestic energy. But since no one guarantees future prices, investments by private companies for higher-priced sources will lag.

Price alone doesn't govern the rate of oil production. Environmental laws and impacts on nearby communities rightly place constraints on the rate of energy production.

The world's proven reserves of crude oil total about 650 billion barrels, enough to last about 30 years at current rates of consumption. "Estimated reserves," those thought to exist but not yet discovered, may total roughly three times as much.

Yet, even if we created an energy company's dream world—high prices, no environmental laws, or lenient government policies—the rate of growth in energy production, especially petroleum, would still be constrained because existing fields are being depleted; new ones will be smaller, and more difficult to locate.

The most severe constraint, however, is that the OPEC nations have learned that holding back on oil production enables them to keep increasing prices as consuming nations bid ever higher for limited supplies.

But domestic production can't grow fast enough to meet growing demands. The United States now imports almost half its oil; if we are to cut back on imports from an oil-short world market, we must practice conservation and develop substitutes for oil.

Most of the problems of oil production also apply to natural gas, except relatively little natural gas is imported. The "easy to find" reservoirs have been discovered and are rapidly being depleted. Even without price controls, which dampen the incentive to explore for new sources, it will be difficult to find the remaining gas as rapidly as existing reservoirs are depleted.

The world's proven reserve of natural gas is about 2,200 trillion cubic feet; its estimated resource, about 8,150 trillion cubic feet. Proven reserves of gas in the United States are about 200 trillion cubic feet, enough to last only 10 years at present consumption levels. Even if the most optimistic estimates of undiscovered gas reserves prove true, U.S. production of natural gas will be severely curtailed in 30 to 50 years.

COAL AND NUCLEAR ENERGY

Coal also illustrates our frustrating energy dilemma. Coal resources are large, compared to petroleum. The proven U.S. reserves could last about 700 years at present consumption rates. But obstacles to mining it and burning it in a socially acceptable manner have limited its use, and new technologies to convert coal to electricity and synthetic fuels need perfecting. If we can solve these environmental and technical efficiency problems, coal could supply a growing share of our needs well into the future.

Nuclear energy is a question mark largely because the public fears it, especially after the Three Mile Island incident. In the next two decades the amount of uranium in the ground isn't likely to be a limiting factor. But, if more efficient nuclear plants cannot be perfected, nuclear fission is a relatively small source of energy, no larger than our oil and natural gas resources.

The United States could get energy from nonrenewable sources yet to be developed, such as shale oil or tar sands. It is estimated that we have 2,000 billion barrels of oil in shale, more than all the crude oil in the Mideast. But the shale oil poses awesome environmental problems, and other sources are untested and likely to be very expensive.

RENEWABLE SOURCES

Obvious sources of nonrenewable energy sources are going to run out some day. The problem then is to develop renewable, superabundant sources and use our fossil fuels and uranium wisely to bridge the gap in the meantime.

There are four potentially major sources of "durable energy" that should be pursued: The nuclear breeder, fusion, geothermal power, and solar energy.

The nuclear breeder holds promise of energy abundance. A breeder reactor is fueled by plutonium-239 instead of the uranium-235 used in today's reactors. While a breeder reactor operates, it "breeds" more of this plutonium fuel from uranium-238, which is abundant. This "breeding" of fuel could allow the known reserves of uranium to fuel breeder reactors for many centuries. But development of the breeder is clouded by concerns over safety, proliferation of atomic bombs from its fuel, and escalating costs.

Fusion power is, in a sense, an energy source as powerful as the sun in a reactor here on earth. Fusion could supply an almost unlimited amount of energy. But after 30 years of intensive effort, the scientific feasibility of fusion has yet to be established. For now, it's a long shot.

Geothermal power, using geyser steam, seems more diffuse and difficult to harness than the sun. Geothermal sites in the United States are scattered, and harnessing them presents major engineering and environmental problems.

Solar energy offers the best possibility for our high-energy civilization to continue. Using the sun to heat buildings is practical today, but harnessing the sun to generate electricity on a large scale will require all our ingenuity. Whether the nation rises to that challenge may well determine our fate in the next century.

For the moment we are short of energy and new sources are many years away. And the shortages will grow if we don't curb our wasteful appetite for energy. Any policy not rooted in programs to conserve energy by making the American economy more energy-efficient is doomed to failure.

Conservation is our quickest and cheapest source of supply.

ADULTS FORGORY

Circuit Judge Victor J. Musile has freed Charles D. Spink, 21, of 1710 Cleveland Blvd., on two years of probation after Spink pleaded guilty to forgery. However, authorities said his probation was revoked as the result of a separate incident and he has been sent to the state correctional facility at Vandalia. The forgery charge stemmed from an alleged attempt to cash a stolen Consumer Money Order Corp. check for $235.75 at the Kroger store in Granite City Aug. 14, 1979.

Young Adults plan supper

The Young Adults group of Good Shepherd United Methodist Church met last week to complete plans for a chili supper.

Members were entertained at the home of Mrs. Carl Hesseid, 2217 Cardinal Ave.

Mrs. Joy Caschetta, president, was in charge of the business session. Ed Kostecki, chairman of the chili supper, said the event will take place from 11 a.m. to 7 p.m. March 1 at the church, 3025 National Ave.

Supper tickets, costing $2 for adults and $1 for children, include chili, dessert and a beverage, or homemade soup instead of chili.

Kostecki said the public is invited to attend.

SENTENCED TO JAIL

Robert D. Clark, 21, of 2908 Buxton Ave., has been sentenced to serve 30 months of probation and six months in the Madison County Jail after pleading guilty to a burglary and a felony count of theft from a May 16, 1979, incident. Associate Judge Philip J. Rarick pronounced sentence.

Meaningful tax relief—senator

The Illinois General Assembly last week not only passed and sent to the governor legislation to give the average Illinois homeowner $105 in real estate tax relief this year, but also voted to allow non-home-rule governments to roll back tax increases realized because of replacement of the corporate personal property tax.

The tax relief measure, House Bill 2563, was passed with the support of Senator Sam M. Vadalabene, Democrat, 5th District. "I am extremely pleased with the legislation we approved," Sen. Vadalabene said. "It is proof positive that Illinois legislators are committed to providing legitimate and meaningful tax relief to the people of this state."

Under provisions of the Democratic-supported legislation, the present homestead exemption is to be increased from $1,500 to $3,000. The increase in the homestead exemption served as protection against inflationary increases in property taxes and amounts to a temporary assessment freeze, he said.

The legislation also allows non-home-rule taxing districts to roll back increases imposed because of the uncertainty last year about the amount of revenue local governments were to receive for replacement of the corporate personal tax. "I think this proves that the General Assembly, through serious and rational negotiations, is capable of providing meaningful relief," Sen. Vadalabene said.

"Under the governor's proposal earlier this month, we would have imposed a flat, 9.3 percent tax lid on local taxing bodies.

"That lid would have served as punishment, in many cases, for local taxing bodies which have done their best to hold the line on property taxes.

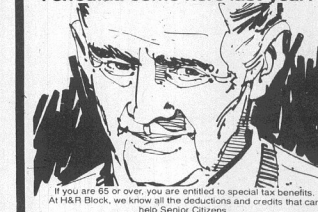

"It also would have actually encouraged local taxing districts to increase annually their tax rates in order to ensure themselves a full share of what revenue was available. I believe that proposal would have been sorely counter-productive."

Under this proposal, which received my full support, the people of Illinois can benefit from $100 million in property tax relief this year. Further, they can receive this tax relief without threat to their existing services.

"If it is signed, they will receive property tax relief with the knowledge that they will not have to suffer from decreased services in their police and fire departments or radical cutbacks in their children's education."

Reward increased to $5,000

University Police at SIUE report that the reward for information leading to arrest and conviction of the person or persons involved in an attack on a female student Feb. 27, 1979, has been raised to $5,000.

The reward originally was posted at $2,000. The woman, a music major at the university but not a resident of the bi-state area, was assaulted while she was practicing the piano in the basement auditorium of Lovejoy Library between 4:30 and 5 p.m.

She received several severe blows to the head and body. She has recovered and returned to classes at the university.

In July 1979, a Madison County grand jury indicted a 24-year-old Edwardsville man on a charge of aggravated battery in connection with the attack, but earlier this month Circuit Judge Victor J. Mosele ordered the case dismissed on a motion by Assistant State's Attorney Robert E. L. Trone, who cited "insufficient evidence for further prosecution."

Police are urging anyone with information to contact the investigation section of the University Police Department at 692-3324. Chief Charles McDonald said all names and information will be kept confidential.

New career at age of 72

A "career change" at the age of 72? That is what is in store for McKinley School, Niedringhaus and Iowa streets, for which a $200,000 bid was submitted Friday morning at the school by neighboring St. Elizabeth Medical Center.

Louis P. Frohardt, first local school superintendent, led planning for McKinley, which received voters' bond issue approval in the spring of 1966 and was opened as the new high school in September 1967. It was closed as a grade school in May 1979 along with the Washington and Stallings elementary schools due to changing enrollment and birthrate trends.

Professor Frohardt called it the "largest, nicest and most up-to-date building for its time."

He added, "It was indeed a happy day when the students and faculty could abandon the old and dilapidated Kinder Church building and the dingy basement rooms and move into the splendid new rooms of the most attractive and perhaps the largest and best school building in Madison County."

What the medical center is getting for $200,000 is a building admittedly not new but one that has been kept in good condition by the school district's maintenance staff.

There has been talk of a new nursing school being established, but SEMC spokesmen Friday said current plans involve holding hospital in-service training sessions at McKinley along with creating offices, meeting rooms and possibly areas for such departments as personnel and purchasing.

Although the medical center is in a $28 million expansion bond issue program, scheduled for completion this year, it finds itself with insufficient space in many areas. It already has been using the McKinley property for parking of autos, and expects to be able to make other effective use of the former school due to its convenient location immediately across Niedringhaus from SEMC.

A church and several businesses had expressed some interest in the structure but did not bid.

As Auctioneer Homer Henke sought bids of $210,000, $205,000 or $201,000 before settling for the minimum of $200,000 set by the School Board, those gathered in front of the school included SEMC Vice-Presidents Frank McGinnis and Paul Raczewicz at the far left. Former Illinois State Instruction Supt. George T. Wilkins Sr. is seated, and others shown include former school music director Louis E. Meek, School Supt. Bob J. Davis and Madison County Regional School Supt. Harold E. "Gene" Briggs.

Formal approval by the Granite City and county school boards of the $200,000 bid is expected. Briggs said the amount sets a new record for schools sold in this county.

Overpass

As the meeting was about to conclude, one alderman asked, "Mayor, what about the overpass?" Schuler then responded, "The overpass is in trouble, I'm afraid."

He added, "I hate to think we might not build one, but that's a serious possibility now."

Alderman Roy Poulos of the Third Ward appealed for continued work on the overpass, saying, "A great deal of work has been put into this. Surely we can get some funds somewhere. Senator (Charles) Percy said we were going to get (federal) money (and we have not gotten it yet).

"Everyone else is getting money—East St. Louis, St. Louis—and certainly we have enough representatives in Washington to get some," Poulos concluded.

Specifications used for Friday's bidding are basically the same as those used Nov. 30, except the city has shortened the estimated time for construction from four years to three years.

"We felt all along the job could be done in three years, and just had to convince the state to reduce the time, since contractors indicated they found it difficult to predict labor and material prices four years from now," according to City Engineer Monroe Brewer.

Five contractors took out specifications and bid forms for Friday's bidding, according to David Nolan, administrative assistant to Mayor Schuler. Nolan and City Engineer Monroe Brewer were on hand in Springfield Friday when the new bids were opened.

Funds secured by the city, thus far, for the overpass—in addition to the $1.3 to $1.7 million to be contributed by Granite City Steel—include $1,711,045 from the Illinois Commerce Commission grade crossing protection fund, $1.4 million from a Federal Aid to Urban Systems (FAUS) grant, $600,000 in federal Community Development funds, and $137,155 from the railroads whose tracks will be spanned by the project.

Aldermen have indicated they would prefer not to sell general obligation bonds to complete the financing of the project, since the bonds would require a real estate tax levy to repay them.

A concerted effort may be made to determine if the $294,165 still needed for the project can be "squeezed" out of existing and future city funds, a challenge to which aldermen may address themselves at the Feb. 5 council meeting.

Ricky Thomas testified he was driving a car and Pitt and Miss Shipley were in the back seat when the shooting occurred. He said they were on their way to Illinois to buy liquor. Thomas was shot in the leg.

Pitt had been shot several weeks before the Shipley death. Pitt said he feared for his life and thought the girl had "set up" his wounding.

Judge Philip J. Rarick presided. Rarick had declared a mistrial in the original Pitt trial in October after a jury met for 11 hours without reaching a verdict.

Granite City Press-Record

Press-Record above national average in coverage of area

The effectiveness of advertising in the Granite City Press-Record and the thorough coverage of Quad-City area news were the topic at last week's luncheon meeting of the Madison-Venice Rotary Club.

The program was presented by Vince Saputo, advertising manager, and Rotarian W. F. "Mick" Strange, assistant to the editor of the Press-Record.

Saputo pointed out that the Press-Record has 88 percent coverage of the Quad-Cities, well over the national 60 percent average for newspapers.

Advertisers have the advantage of three national layout services which offer a wide variety of art, type variations and graphics to catch the reader's eye, he said, adding that an advertising program that offers immediate impact can be designed and tailored to fit a business regardless of size.

"This, according to Saputo, lets the small business enjoy the same effectiveness as the larger advertisers.

"Consistent advertising yields results no matter what the amount of dollars spent or size of the ad," he emphasized.

Saputo said that a tour of the Press-Record is available to groups of 15 or less. To arrange for a tour of the ultra-modern presses and news facilities, persons may telephone 876-2000 and ask for him.

Strange then spoke on the news portion of the paper. He noted that what may be good news for one is bad news for another.

As an example, Strange pointed out that the Rotarians who have to (by club custom) spin the "fine wheel" and pay a fine to the club for having their picture in the paper may seem to feel it is bad news for the Rotarians. However, it is good news for the club and the benefit projects it aids, as a few dollars are added, by the fines, to the club treasury.

He pointed out that the staff of the Press-Record is deeply interested and involved in the entire Quad-City area.

Strange noted that all in the news room are active, on their own time, in community programs because "we live here and we really care about the entire community and its people."

He commented that, although the news staff really would like to be everywhere and at every area function, it is physically impossible due to the size and diversity of the community and its unusually active citizens and groups.

"One of the main reasons we are able to give such complete news coverage of activities in the area is the tremendous help we get from the public. People in this area are great about bringing in news or giving us a call. This makes everyone happy," Strange concluded.

NEWSPAPER ADVERTISING and the effectiveness of the Granite City Press-Record in reaching over 88 percent of the Quad-Cities by carrier with up-to-date news and advertising are explained to the Madison-Venice Rotary Club by Vince Saputo, advertising manager. Seated is Jack Lee, president of the M-V Rotary.

Windshield is broken; three are arrested

David K. Patterson, 21, and Darren M. Patterson, 19, both of 3501 Kirkpatrick Homes, were charged with two counts of criminal damage to property each after they allegedly kicked in the windshield of a car on the parking lot of Bell Brothers service station, 2425 Washington Ave., at 11:35 p.m. Thursday. Glass in a gasoline pump also was broken, leading to the second charge against each.

Lawrence E. Biggs, 28, of 945 Nidringhaus Ave., who was charged with them, was charged with driving on an expired driver's license, not having valid registration for his vehicle and failing to have a city tax sticker.

An employee of the service station first told police he saw two men standing on the hood of a car in the station lot and kicking the windshield. They ran north on Washington Avenue when the employee yelled at them, police were told.

An officer saw two men entering a car at Kate Street and Hodges Avenue—who matched the description of the two seen at the service station. Biggs, who was driving the car, and the two Pattersons, who were in the back seat, were taken into custody and the Pattersons were identified by the attendant at the service station, police alleged.

Driver faces three charges

Royal E. Odum, 59, of 3009 Marshall Ave., was charged with reckless driving, driving while intoxicated and, resisting arrest after police alleged seeing his car being driven in a reckless manner at Leonard and Myrtle avenues at 6:50 p.m. Thursday.

The officer said he turned on the red lights of his squad car and followed the auto, but it did not stop and drove into an alley and into an open garage behind Odum's home, it was alleged.

When the officer approached, the driver allegedly slammed the overhead door shut and ran out a side door toward the house.

He was stopped in the rear yard but allegedly pulled away. Minimum force was used to subdue him, the officer reported. Odum was taken to the police station where he allegedly declined to submit to a breath test for alcohol.

All that glitters in some options may not be gold, silver or oil

Illinois Secretary of State Alan J. Dixon has just prohibited three East Coast investment firms from doing business in Illinois, and has issued a warning to would-be commodities investors.

The firms and their sales personnel are charged with selling unregistered securities, lack of Illinois Securities sales credentials, illegal sale of options on commodity futures contracts, and gambling under the Illinois Criminal Code.

The warning from the secretary of state Thursday was that current volatile international commodities markets provide golden opportunities for swindlers.

Dixon said, "Organizations committing this type of fraud are highly professional. They prey on knowledgeable speculators, offering promise of quick profits from the rising prices of oil, gold, silver and other heavily traded commodities. They do business by telephone, and their sales pitch is smooth enough to fool an experienced investor."

"Illinois residents must be warned to stay away from investment schemes offered through unsolicited telephone calls."

"Investment advice should be accepted only from sources we know are reliable. All transactions should be made through dealers, brokers and traders we know personally or know to be legitimate through telephone calls."

"The Illinois secretary of state has received complaints from investors in such schemes who have been cheated of paper profits in excess of half a million dollars."

The fees they paid are lost unless federal law enforcement officials are able to trace the firms that bilked them, Dixon says.

Sale of such options to buy commodity futures has been illegal since June 1978 by federal law, and Dixon has friends or professional sources."

The firms Dixon cited allegedly have been selling options on commodity futures contracts for gold and silver bullion and crude oil. In one case, a Chicago resident purchased an option to buy 1,000 barrels of crude oil in September 1979 for delivery in March 1980 for a fee of $7,200.

The lure of such a scheme is that if the price of oil rises between the date of purchase and the delivery date, the investor may exercise the option and pocket the profit.

Salesmen tout these option deals as sure things, professing to have inside information that the value of the commodity will rise, Dixon says.

Promoters refer to these options as "deferred delivery contracts," "future delivery programs" or "personal property contracts."

What the crooked broker is after is the option fee, in this case $7,200.

Dixon comments: "He can get it in three ways. If the commodity in fact does not increase in value, it's his by contract. If he has chosen to truly invest in the commodity in the legitimate futures market, the $7,200 is profit to him as an unregistered speculator."

"More likely, however, he simply pockets the fee, stalls the investor when he calls to collect his profit and, eventually, disappears."

The Illinois secretary of state has received complaints from investors in such schemes who have been cheated of paper profits in excess of half a million dollars."

The fees they paid are lost unless federal law enforcement officials are able to trace the firms that bilked them, Dixon says.

Sale of such options to buy commodity futures has been illegal since June 1978 by federal law, and Dixon has ruled, this sort of transaction constitutes gambling under Illinois law.

Persons who wish to invest in commodities may do so by purchasing futures on exchanges regulated by the government, such as the Chicago Board of Trade or the Chicago Mercantile Exchange.

In most cases, such investments involve a smaller cash outlay than an option scheme.

However, a futures investor may have to lay out more cash to support his margin contract. If the market moves below the price on the day of purchase, and he must take the full loss if the commodity does not increase in value.

Dixon said, "As secretary of state, I want to do everything in my power to protect Illinois citizens from fraudulent operators."

"Anyone who receives such a proposal should call the Enforcement Section of the Securities Division of the secretary of state's office immediately. In Chicago, the number is (312) 793-3384."

"The toll-free information number for the secretary of state is (800) 252-3880."

Sentenced in shooting case

Charles Haynes Jr., 18, of 164 Lee Wright Homes, Venice, has been sentenced to serve two years of probation and eight weekends in the Madison County Jail and to pay $611 in restitution after pleading guilty to aggravated battery.

Catholic School Week events at St. Elizabeth

"The Catholic School: One of the Family." That is the theme of Catholic Schools Week Feb. 9-9.

"Family is supportive; so are Catholic schools. Family cares: Catholic schools care. Families are proud of their heritage and traditions; so are Catholic schools. Families and school join in salute to all the Catholic education programs in the Granite City area, part of the diocese of Springfield," a spokesman commented today.

Sister Margaret Mary, principal of St. Elizabeth School here, says this year's theme underscores the close relationship between school and families, both immediate and community-wide.

"We are proud of our history of serving Granite City," the principal said, "and we want to share our celebration with everyone."

The public is being invited to a presentation planned by St. Elizabeth School during the week. These will include:

Open house—Monday, Feb. 4, from 7 p.m. to 8:30 p.m. A book fair will be in progress during those hours, also.

Book Fair—Tuesday through Friday (Feb. 5-8) from 2:30 to 4 p.m. Special liturgy—Wednesday, Feb. 6, at 8 a.m. Open house—Wednesday, Feb. 6, visitation of classrooms while classes are in session 9 to 10:30 a.m. Guests may also visit the book fair.

Catholic Schools Week is an annual celebration of Catholic schools' continuing contribution to American education. It is co-sponsored by the U.S. Department of Education, U.S. Catholic Conference, and National Catholic Educational Association.

Lower speed, lower death toll are linked

Enactment of the national maximum speed limit (55 miles per hour) in 1974 has saved lives and helped conserve fuel. In 1979, it contributed to 118 fewer traffic fatalities in Illinois, according to Lieutenant James O. Stever, commander, Illinois State Police District Eleven.

He has implemented various speed enforcement programs in a renewed effort to save lives by strict enforcement of the 55 speed limit.

Troopers patrolling the nine-county area will be utilizing more radar units for speed checks.

District Eleven will be receiving 44 additional moving radar units, bringing the total to 75 units. Air speed checks will also be utilized.

Department of Transportation Division of Criminal Investigation, and private vehicles will be used in the radar speed checks.

Only officers in uniform and marked squad cars will make contact with violators.

On Interstate highways, a marked squad car in the left lane will patrol at 55 mph and will act as a pace vehicle. Motorists attempting to pass will be advised that they are in violation, and appropriate enforcement action will be taken, the commander said, adding, "The 55 SPEED LIMIT IS 55."

Scuba divers present Cub Pack 122 program

A talk by scuba divers and the presentation of various den projects completed in the past month highlighted last week's meeting of Cub Pack 122 at Wilson School.

Woody Moad, Pack 122 chairman, gave the welcome and introduced Larry Earnsey and Randy Vesserman of the Bub-blemasters Scuba Diving Club.

Both men are qualified divers and serve on the Bubblemasters' underwater recovery team.

They discussed skin and scuba diving, as well as swimming in general, and showed different gear needed in diving and explained how it is used.

Also of interest to the boys was their display of seashells, collected during ocean diving trips.

Two, the pack's newest den, described its January projects that included growing sweet potato plants and art work.

The cubs gave a talk on ships and their den mother, Mrs. Carol Fowler, reported the boys are working toward a Bear badge, having already earned Bobcat and Wolf badges since the den was formed in October.

Under the direction of Den Mother Joan Houston, Den Three cubs presented a pirate skit.

Performing in the playlet were Brian Rivenburgh as Blue Beard, Dennis Legate, Captain Blood, Matt Houston, Captain Hook, John Moad, Captain Kid, Jimmy Stout, Black Beard, and Clint Jones as Henry Morgan.

The Webelos gave talks on the topic, "To Be Created Equal." Neil Dettwiler leads the Webelos.

Reverendments were served by Den Three after the program.

Bus security plan is called success

"The one-year-old security program on-board buses has been an unqualified success," according to Charles G. Houghton, executive director of the Bi-State Development Agency.

The security program uses off-duty police officers working undercover aboard Bi-State buses. The officers work random times and locations within their jurisdiction and have the authority to issue summonses and make arrests. Frank J. Kavanaugh, manager of security for Bi-State, reports that "total arrests for 1979 were over 1,000, compared with only 40 for the previous year."

The program began in St. Louis last January, expanded to East St. Louis and St. Clair County in October, and to St. Louis County in November. Arrests for those jurisdictions were 796, 93 and 172, respectively.

"The word of our success has reached other transit properties throughout the nation," Kavanaugh continued. "I have had calls from several wanting to know how we put our program together."

"From the informal conversations with other bus systems, Bi-State's security program seems to be far more effective than most."

During the past year, cigarette and marijuana smoking were, the most common offenses, followed by consumption of alcohol.

Half of Illinois' Republicans said to favor Reagan

Republican presidential candidate and Illinois native son Ronald Reagan holds a sizeable lead over his Republican challengers in Illinois, according to a new statewide poll announced by his state campaign chairman, State Rep. Donald Totten.

In a survey of 4,428 Republican households in 18 of the 24 Congressional districts, the former California governor was the choice of 2,100 respondents, 47 percent of those answering the poll.

John Connally was second with 14 percent; Howard Baker, 13 percent; Philip Crane, 1 percent; George Bush, 10 percent; John Anderson, 4 percent; and Robert Dole, 1 percent.

The poll was conducted by the Reagan For President Committee of Illinois between Dec. 20 and Jan. 14. Republican voters were read a list of announced candidates for the Illinois primary and asked who they would vote for in the election. About 300 calls were made into each district.

Rep. Totten said, "The poll respondents are reflecting a need for something similar to Reagan's income tax rebate in California, whereby citizens were provided with a 10 percent reduction in personal income taxes, and his successful streamlining of California's welfare system. His welfare plan saved the state over $2 billion, and, thus, personal property taxes were reduced in 70 percent of California's counties."

"We plan to do further polls between now and the March 18 primary election," Totten concluded.

New pact with county employees may exceed budgeting for salaries

It may have been Friday night, but the minds of many Madison County employees were not on dancing as they jammed the meeting room in the county courthouse at Edwardsville for a special meeting of the county board.

At issue was a pay increase for the employees, and the board quickly approved the new contract with Local 799 of the American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employees. The meeting lasted only 15 minutes.

The pact affects about 270 members of the union and 200 other clerical employees who are not in the union but who receive the same pay scale as the union members. About 60 of the employees jammed the meeting room Friday night for the ratification by the board.

The county employees staged a two-hour strike Jan. 17, the day after the county board tabled the contract at the regular meeting of the board due to questions on whether sufficient funds to meet the raises were available.

The answer given Friday night was "yes" and "no." Of $500,000 in the new county budget earmarked for salary increases, raises totaling $176,000 already had been approved for other unions, according to County Board Chairman Nelson Hagnauer of Granite City.

Since a significant portion of the pact with the clerical employees is in a cost-of-living adjustment, which will change with inflation, the precise cost to the county of the new contract cannot be pinpointed, the board was told.

Board Member Fred Dalton of Collinsville, who originally asked that the contract be tabled to allow more time to determine the cost, said he felt the delay was justified, since subsequent investigation showed the county probably will overspend the $500,000 it has available for salary increases and will have to dip into contingency funds and possibly into money set aside for severance pay in order to meet the new pay scale.

The new agreement with Local 799 was approved on a 23-1 vote with only Richard Worthen of Alton voting against it. Worthen said he is against a nine-cent per $100 assessed valuation increase in taxes to support the new budget and will oppose any increased costs taxpayers will have to support.

The new contract gives employees a 30-cent per hour increase, plus a 10-cent cost of living increase, retroactive to Dec. 1. The cost-of-living will be adjusted quarterly, rising one cent per hour for each three-tenths of a percent increase in the consumer price index.

State will fight sexual harassment

Governor James R. Thompson last week ordered all agency heads under his jurisdiction to take steps to eliminate sexual harassment and urged other state constitutional officers to do the same.

The executive order defined sexual harassment as "unsolicited, deliberate or repeated sexually explicit derogatory statements, gestures or physical contacts which are objectionable to the recipient and which cause discomfort or humiliation."

"It may involve pressure from a person of either sex against a person of the opposite or same sex and may occur in any employment relationship."

The order requires the Department of Equal Employment Opportunity to provide training to all equal employment opportunity officers, and makes agency heads responsible for disseminating to each agency employee appropriate information about sexual harassment.

Tortured by robbers

Phil Morrison of the 4800 block of Maryville Road told Madison County sheriff's deputies Friday that two men who broke into his home tortured him, attempting to find out where any money was kept, and then left with a shotgun and about $4 in cash Thursday.

Morrison said he was awakened by noises in his house and when he entered the hallway near the dining room he was struck on the head by something, knocking him down.

He said he saw two men, one holding a double-barrel shotgun to the back of his neck. Morrison said he begged them not to kill him and they demanded to know where he kept his money.

When he said he had none in the house, one man turned and severely twisted the knuckles of Morrison's right hand.

They then ransacked the home, tore the telephone from the wall and left, taking a shotgun and about $4 in cash.

Sheriff's deputies said Morrison's right hand was swollen to about twice its normal size and was very discolored. There also was a large amount of blood on his head, it was reported.

Vandals damage 2 autos

No additional energy aid applications

The Madison County Economic Opportunity Commission said today, "We have just received confirmation that a proposal for $160,376 has been granted for emergency energy. Although this money is forthcoming, and we have not received it as yet, we will not be taking additional applications unless the following occur:

1. "If there is money left after all the previous applications dated Dec. 3 and 4, 1979, have been processed and paid for aid to families with winter fuel needs; and

2. "If there is money left after Dec. 4, have been processed and paid in the chronological order in which they were taken, the date with the time being verified on the application."

"If there is money left to pay utilities after the first two situations have been paid, then the following will take place:

1. "Notification will be given to the township supervisors as to when they may resume taking applications."

2. "Ample notification will also be given for public information when applications will be taken."

3. "Money will be disbursed on a first come, first serve basis at the township supervisor's office."

The latest grant is the second to this county. The initial funding was quickly exhausted.

Granite City police are attempting to determine if the damaging of two cars about an hour apart in Granite City last night was related.

Federico Foschiatti, 2815 E. 25th St., reported that he was driving on Nameoki Road at 11:30 p.m. yesterday when two men ran into the street at Pershing Boulevard and threw beer bottles at his car, breaking the windshield and denting the hood. A piece of chrome strip also was torn from Foschiatti's car.

Carl Graham, 4510 Kirkpatrick Homes, reported he was southbound on Edwardsville Road near the Granite City Steel blast furnace about 12:25 a.m. today when his car was struck, apparently with a shotgun blast.

The left front headlight was broken and the hood and windshield were struck with about 25 to 30 pellets, police said.

Graham said he believes the shot was fired from an auto which was in front of his car at the time.

Maeras hospitalized

Former Madison County Sheriff John Maeras of Madison was admitted to St. Elizabeth Medical Center at 2 p.m. Thursday for additional treatment of lung cancer and was in satisfactory condition today, the Press-Record has learned.

The hospitalization may cause another postponement in a federal court hearing to determine whether Maeras should be sentenced in connection with his federal conviction in February on racketeering charges. U.S. Attorney Gerald Fines said a delay seems likely, but a hearing officially is scheduled for 9 a.m. Wednesday in Alton U.S. District Judge J. Waldo Ackerman, who is presiding over the Maeras case, also is hospitalized in Springfield, due to a back ailment.

Judge Ackerman's hospitalization was the reason the hearing on Maeras was postponed from Wednesday, Jan. 23, to Jan. 30.

Last month, Fines requested a "status call" hearing on to determine if Maeras' health warranted continuation of a delay in sentencing. Judge Ackerman granted Maeras an indefinite postponement of sentencing in May after his doctors testified that the former sheriff is suffering from terminal cancer.

Hospital officials referred inquiries to his doctor's office. A nurse at that office said the doctor is out of town until tomorrow.

Lebanon pulls 86-82 surprise on Madison

• Photo pg. 18

By KEVIN ALLEN

LEBANON — The sold-out sign was slapped on the doors of the Lebanon gym an hour-and-a-half before the Madison Trojans and the Lebanon Greyhounds stepped onto the court.

The capacity crowd squeezed elbow to elbow in the little gym, expecting non-stop basketball, what with the likes of Madison's Morris Hughes and Lebanon's Shelby Brooks as featured attractions.

pointed it was the Madison Trojan faithful. Aside from the Trojan's 86-82 defeat, everything was consistent with the high expectations.

From the start the game was a study in constant, flowing, flying, leaping motion. The well-worn phrase run-and-gun was an inadequate description.

Lebanon's Brooks was there spinning and leaping, passing off in a crowd of defenders. But mainly shooting with unlikely accuracy from unlikely distances all over the court.

And Madison's Hughes was there holding down the middle of Madison's offense and defense. Sweeping the boards clean and keeping the Trojans in the game.

Maybe it was ironic, but then again maybe not, that the absences of these two pretty much determined the outcome of the game.

First, it was Brooks. After collecting his fourth foul just 30 seconds before the end of the first half, he was relegated to the bench during most of the third quarter.

Was it coincidence that the Trojans, down 43-32 when Brooks departed, climbed back into the game by the time Brooks reappeared in the fourth quarter?

Press-Record

Sports

GRANITE CITY (III.) PRESS-RECORD, Monday, Jan. 28, 1980 — 17

Hughes' coach Larry Graham said. "He has bone chips in his ankle. He was playing in a lot of pain."

When Hughes left the game, pulling closer and closer to Lebanon, Madison was down 75-70 at the time.

But then the surge stopped. The Greyhounds held on for a four-point win.

How the Trojans got in a position to put some drama in the game, though, was as important as either Hughes or Brooks. It was what the people came to see.

Down 43-32 at the half, the Trojans manage to close the score to within two points late in the fourth period.

"We just got the momentum," Graham said of the comeback. "We put the ball where it was meant to go. We got it in the hole. Kervin Stanley did the job on defense and Hughes did it on offense."

Somehow, even when the Greyhounds were 10 and 12 points ahead, you knew the game would be close.

The Trojans came out in the second half apparently determined to jump back in the game. Madison stepped

South captures quad

FLORISSANT — Granite South walked away with top team and six top individual honors from the McClellan North Quadrangular meet, Saturday afternoon at the Florissant Junior High Gymnasium.

South compiled 136 total points in the afternoon to beat Quincy by 18. Quincy totaled 118. Columbia-Hickman tallied 83, and the host team scored 45.

The Warriors wrestled to gain six first-place awards. At 112 pounds, Greg Garland went 3-0 for the day. Randy Lupardus at 126, Tom McElroy at 138, Dean Perkins at 145, Drue Clement at 155, and Jim Frangoulis at 167 all were honored.

The quad was actually three dual meets with the team scores tallied to determine the champion team. In round one, South defeated Hickman 46-9 and Quincy beat McClellan 52-9. South beat McClellan 53-8 and Quincy downed Hickman 44-12, in second round action. In the final round, Hickman defeated McClellan 32-28 and South walloped Quincy 35-25.

The Warriors took a quick 9-0 backseat to the Kewpies of Hickman after the first two bouts. At 98, Glen Wright of South, was pinned by the eventual champion, Martin Hickman's other champ, Smith at 105, beat Chris Cottrell, 5-2.

But, the Warriors battled back with a Greg Garland 5:27 pin at 112 over Jeff Jennings. At 119, Kenny Wilson, of South, decisioned Mike Burwell, 10-7. Randy Lupardus, at 126, received a forfeit.

Rodney Lupardus, at 132 for South, shut out Jeff Vaset, 10-0. McElroy, at 138, skunked Tim Ray 9-0; and Perkins at 145, pinned Mark Forrester with a figure "4" head lock at the 2:46 mark. Clement, at 155, beat John Seabaugh, 6-1.

Frangoulis, at 167, pinned Dwight Norton, in 1:56. Rich James, South's 185-pounder, scored a one point decision over Ken Stull, 4-3. In the unlimited weight class, Bruce Monahan, of South, whipped Ken Burwell, 19-0.

The McClellan Stars forfeited both the 98 pound and the 185 pound bouts. At 105, Cottrell, of South, landed a 16-4 decision over sophomore Kurt Dick. Garland, at 112, locked a far-side cradle on McClellan's Mitch Hellickson, 2-49.

At 119, Wilson lost 15-2, to junior Mike Lanzone of McClellan. Randy Lupardus, of South at 126, pinned Robbie Crowe with a reverse half nelson at the 4:41 mark. Rodney Lupardus, at 132, beat his brother's pin time with his fall over Mike Lanzone, 1:57.

McElroy, 138 pound Warrior, scored nine near-fall points in the third period to embarrass Joe Cuneo, Perkins stuck Brett Aiello, of McClellan, at the 3:05 mark of the 145 pound match. Clement, of South at 155, scored a 9-5 decision against Dan Von Leuven.

Frangoulis, 167 pounds, stuck Glen Gallagher with six seconds remaining in the first period. James received his forfeit at 185, and heavyweight Monahan lost 9-3 to McClellan's only Champion — Kennard.

The win over Quincy was to decide the top team. South only led Quincy by five team points at the start.

Again South took an early backseat. Again South was down 9-0 after the first two

Red Devils win Sparta Classic

By PETE HAYES

SPARTA — It's amazing what a difference a few weeks makes in the way a basketball team plays.

Here Saturday night, Venice took on Marissa for the championship of the Sparta Mid-winter Classic. It appeared all the ingredients were there for a rout.

After all, Venice had shelacked the very same Marissa crew by 25 points for fifth place in the Columbia Christmas Tournament.

But this time, it was for all the marbles. Marissa played an inspired ball game and looked like an improved team since Venice last saw the Meteors.

Trouble for Marissa was, Venice played better. The Red Devils of Coach Ken Perkins broke out of a tight game late in the second quarter to take a 57-48 victory and its second straight Sparta title.

Perkins' team was able to withstand tremendous outside shooting by the Meteors. At the outset, it appeared as if the crew from Venice was in for the shock of the season. Marissa's 6'2" forward Bryan Perry popped in three straight long range baskets to give Marissa a 6-2 lead. But the buckets stopped there—at least for a stretch.

While Marissa started finding it hard to find the bottom of the basket for a two minute stretch, Venice was able to come back and take a 10-8 lead.

Three tie at Benton

"I'll tell you," said Perkins. "This Marissa team is sneaky. The last time we played them, there really wasn't that much on the line for a 58-57 win in a Venice running a disciplined offense? Yup."

Whatever happened in the previous meeting between the two teams, one thing didn't change. Marissa couldn't stop Donald Gardner.

Gardner weaved his way in and out of the middle for Venice and led the team in scoring with 17 points.

With Venice applying its brand of sticky defense, one would expect a team already down by six points to panic. But not Marissa.

In fact, Marissa managed to crawl back and tie the score 28-28 after trailing 24-18. But another dry spell hit and Venice this time was able to take advantage of it.

The Red Devils outscored Marissa 10-2 the last 3:37 of the first half to take a 38-30 lead into the locker room at the intermission.

Even though they led going into the fourth quarter by only seven points, the Red Devils opted for a slow-down type game.

What's this? Venice. Run-and-gun. Venice running a disciplined offense? Yup.

"We were trying to draw them (Marissa) out of their zone and make them come out to us," said Perkins. "I really wasn't trying to stall it out."

Whatever the case, Perkins' strategy worked. Showing amazing poise and discipline, Venice stalled out two minutes at the beginning of the fourth quarter before it took its first shot.

That shot, a driving wide-open layup by Kevin Roberts, went in.

"I was happy to see us work it that well," said Perkins. "Getting that first shot by Roberts to do in also helped. It's good to know something you're doing is going to pay off."

"It's makes it a little easier to run the next time down the floor."

Donald Gardner wasn't the only Red Devil in the game. And Perkins alluded to that. "People talk a lot about Donald," he said. "But there are five guys out there on the floor. We're not a one-man show by any means."

Wigfall (Kevin) has meant as much to our recent good fortune as anybody on the team."

Wigfall scored 8 points against the Meteors.

Marissa coach Dave Schulte agreed with Perkins. "There's no way you can key on one guy on Venice's team," he said. "If you do somebody'll be right there to burn you. I thought Wigfall did a heck of a job. Without him, they might not have been here tonight."

The victory raised Venice's record to 10-7 on the season, going into a Tuesday night game at home against O'Fallon Tenth.

It was Venice's fourth Sparta championship. The Red Devils also won the Classic in 1975 and 1976 before regaining the crown last season.

Athoff hands North 58-57 heart-breaker

By ROB REHG

BELLEVILLE — The situation couldn't have been much better for the Granite City North Steelers. Down by a point, with 10 seconds to play, North guard Mike Robertson was standing at the foul line ready to shoot. If he made the shot, Robertson would have an opportunity to shoot again and put North on top of a game it had been losing most of the day.

And Robertson is awfully good at the foul line. None better on the whole North team. Shooting 83 percent from the stripe for the year, Robertson has been among the top free throw shooters in the entire area this season. Belleville Athoff coach Al Poppe called time out to let Robertson think about his pressure-packed free throw.

Robertson thought about it, walked calmly up to the line and missed the shot.

Belleville grabbed the rebound, drew a foul, and held on for a 58-57 win in a Belleville East tournament consolation match Saturday afternoon.

Actually North got another chance to pull out Saturday's game. Crusader forward Robert Totsch had drawn a foul while grabbing Robertson's free throw, but he missed his free throw also. Robertson got the ball and called time out at half court with four seconds left.

Dennis Page, who scored a season high 38 points Saturday, drew double coverage after throwing the ball inbound and sophomore guard Carl Luehman let go a buzzer shot that just missed going in. Luehman had gotten into the game just 30 seconds earlier when Bob Baley fouled out, and even though he was cold, his shot nearly saved the day for North.

But it was Robertson's missed foul shot that stood out in North coach Bill Ohlendorf's mind.

"We had just what we wanted," a dejected Ohlendorf said, "our best free throw shooter at the line. There's really not too much to say about this game. We lost it at the foul line."

As a team North made 15 of 25 foul shots good for 60 percent. Athoff wasn't much better, going 20 for 32 for 63 percent.

"If one of the teams would have stood out at the foul line, it would have taken control of the game," said Poppe. "A close game like this shows the importance of free throws."

Both teams got into foul trouble early. North's center Greg Faulkner had fouled out midway through the third quarter. Steeler forward Mike York followed him midway through the fourth, as did Batey and Crusader forwards Matt

Hardin and Steve Hill.

Almost every player on the court was playing with four fouls early in the last quarter. And the game stayed close as both clubs continued to miss foul shots.

Athoff broke on top first and led after the first quarter 16-14. The Crusaders extended their lead to five, 32-27, at the half.

In the third quarter, North adjusted to a Crusader defense designed to pressure the Steelers' perimeter oriented offense. Page broke inside to score on a couple of back door plays to show he was dangerous in close as well as outside. And the talented shooter made a 20 footer at the buzzer to tie the score 47-47 after three quarters.

Even though Athoff tried to pull away, Page would hit an 18 or 20 footer to keep North close. Poppe admitted he was at a loss as how to guard

Murphysboro edges for crown

BELLEVILLE — Murphysboro got 28 points from forward Dirk Borgsmiller and edged Belleville East 59-57 here Saturday for the championship of the Belleville East Invitational Tournament.

Murphysboro's Red Devils had to come from behind to win their second tournament championship (they also won in 1974). They trailed 49-43 going into the fourth quarter.

But then, the Lancers went wild from the field. They didn't score for nearly the first four minutes of the final period. They also had not scored in the last 1:30 of the third quarter. In that scoring drought, the Red Devils gunned in 10 unanswered points to take a 51-49 lead. Murphysboro moved out to a 58-53 lead and held on for the victory.

East was led by Kent Knebelkamp's 25 points.

up its defense with a man-to-man press, and the two teams went on frantic chase up and down the court.
 Without Brooks' scoring and rebounding, the Greyhounds saw the Trojans slowly cut the lead, until at the end of the third quarter, when Stanley stole a Lebanon pass in the backcourt and raced in alone for the lay up.
 That cut the lead to 65-59. The critical point came about midway through the fourth period.
 The Greyhounds saw Madison steal the ball twice consecutively and each time put points on the scoreboard. At 5:22, after the exchange, Madison had pulled to within three.

"Everybody says we're a one-man team," Johnson said. "But tonight I think we proved we're not."

That's because even with Brooks slowed with four fouls the Greyhounds managed to regroup and hold off the oncoming Trojans.

Lebanon began a version of the four-corner stall with 1:52 left to play. Johnson called time, and layed out the strategy.
 "The thing about the four-corners is they either stop you or they don't," Johnson said. "We use both ways. If we can control the game, we will. But if we can score we'll do that too."

MORRIS HUGHES of Madison (45) fights for the basketball Saturday night in Lebanon with Lebanon's Shelby Brooks. Madison was beaten by the Greyhounds 86-82.

North works overtime

North 55-52 in a surprisingly close game.

It hadn't started out close. With Mascoutah's 6-foot-four forward Bobby Gillis grabbing as many first-half rebounds as the entire Steeler team (eight), while scoring nine points from in close, and Kris Jennes scoring 14 points from the outside, it looked like Mascoutah would walk away with the game.

The half ended with Mascoutah outbounding North 46 percent to 38 percent and outscoring North 28-21.

Then the Steelers got a couple of breaks. Midway through the third period, Jenner, who had announced earlier in the day he would accept a basketball scholarship to Kentucky next year, got poked in the eye and had to leave the game. Gillis quickly drew his fourth foul and had to sit on the bench with Jenner. But even with Jenner and Gillis off the court, North looked like sure losers.

Mascoutah center Reggie Drew popped for a couple close range baskets and the Indians opened up their biggest lead of the night, 37-25.

Then things started to turn around. The Steelers shut off Mascoutah's inside game and forced a couple of turnovers. Page made two 18 footers and Robertson hit from 15 to cut the Indian lead to 37-31 when the third quarter ended.

Suddenly the tide had turned. North had set a slow pace tempo early in the game with deliberate ball control, a lot of passing and little shooting, but Mascoutah had been beating North at its own game by controlling the boards and shooting at a better percentage.

In the fourth quarter,

North's swarming 2-3 zone defense forced Mascoutah to go for the outside shot which Indian coach Thouvenier later said "we were reluctant to take for some reason."

Page and Robertson came up with a couple of steals early in the quarter which the Steelers capitalized on. With 4:02 left in the game and the Indians' lead cut to 41-38, Jenner went back into the game. His eye had been swollen shut, but some treatment had brought him around and the Indians desperately needed him back on the court.

the most part. Both teams played with a great deal of intensity, but committed too many mental errors. Althoff had 16 turnovers and North had nine. Flagrant and often dumb fouls were made throughout the day. Neither team shot particularly well with Althoff making 50 percent of its field goal shots to North's 38 percent.

The fourth quarter was exciting never-the-less as the lead changed hands four times. North held a 55-54 lead with two minutes left when Crusader guard Mike Laney made a layup to put Althoff on top for good.

The loss was an especially demoralizing one for North because it came on the heels of a double overtime loss to Mascoutah the night before.

And Page, who was eight for eight from the foul line enroute to scoring 38 points, was the picture of dejection following the game. Ohlendorf grabbed his arm as he left the locker room and said, "Dennis, you played a great game. I'm sorry we lost it for you."

While heading for the door Page said over his shoulder, "We'll just have to keep trying. I guess."

"That's the only road to go partner," Ohlendorf said. "The only road to go."

Cahokia has a good case of heart-burn

SALEM — Upset.

The Cahokia Comanches of the Gateway East Conference pulled off a major upset here Saturday night by defeating the Effingham Flaming Hearts 65-44 in the championship game of the Salem Invitational Tournament.

The loss for Effingham, ranked number eight in the latest state-wide poll of Class AA schools, gives it a 15-1 record.

How did Cahokia do it? First, the Comanches held Effingham's all-everything Dale Grupe a 6'5" forward, to six points. And they limited 7'2" Uwe Blab to nine.

And, believe it or not, the Comanches out-rebounded the taller Hearts 37-30.

Cahokia, 12-4, was led by Jon Collins' 18 points and 16 rebounds.

poise his team demonstrated, especially when behind at the end of the first period. "Being able to play our kind of ball game and not get impatient just because we were behind showed a great deal of poise," he said.

"We played some tough defense too."

Leading the way for Venice was all-state candidate Donald Gardner with 25 points. Two other Red Devils were in double figures with Cox and Archie Gardner with 10 each.

What a field. Area regionals among best

COLLINSVILLE — Poor Granite City South. How they'd love to have been assigned to a different Class AA Regional.

ANY other regional? The South Warriors have been seeded fourth in the four-team Collinsville Regional. A regional that includes three of the top four teams in the area.

East St. Louis Lincoln, by virtue of 14-1 record and a victory over East St. Louis Senior last week, is the top seed. Collinsville, after being beaten by Alton last week, was relegated to second. East St. Louis is third.

South went into this season with high expectations. At times, the Warriors have looked impressive (they only lost to Lincoln by three points and should have won the game, many thought).

But more often than not, they have failed to play consistently. For instance, South, after that narrow loss to Lincoln, the top seed - was whipped last week by Collinsville - the second seed - by 22 points.

Still, South could feasibly put the pieces together and win the regional. That's the kind of potential the Warriors have.

The seedings for the Dupo Class A Regional, however, have been released. Talk about your basically tough tournament.

If the Collinsville Class AA meet is the toughest of its kind in the area, the Dupo meet could be the toughest in the state. The likes of Madison, Lovejoy, Venice, East St. Louis Assumption and Dupo are featured. In any other small school regional in the area, any one of those teams could have been seeded number one.

But at Dupo, it's Lovejoy (13-5) after upsets of Madison and Cairo the last two weeks, that has gotten the top nod.

Madison (13-2) is seeded second, Assumption (10-6) third, Dupo (11-6) and Venice (11-7) fifth. It's Venice that could sneak up on the field, according to one coach. "They're really playing very well right now," he said. "In fact, they could be a spoiler. People had better watch out for them."

Even though Lovejoy is seeded first, Madison is considered the favorite by most area coaches.

After the dust has settled following the respective Class A and AA regionals, the sectional tournaments will roll around.

The winner of the Dupo small school regional will advance to the Vandalia Sectional, to face the winner of the Greenville Regional.

In the Class A tournament, the winner at Vandalia will advance to Charleston and the Super Sectional at Lantz Gym on the campus of Eastern Illinois University. The likely foes there will be either two time state champ Lawrenceville, Carmi or Effingham St. Anthony.

In the Class AA tournament, the Collinsville champion will advance to the East St. Louis Sectional along with the winners from Belleville East, Alton and Highland (where Granite City North is entered). In the first round there, the Collinsville winner will face the Alton champ, probably Alton (13-2), which owns victories over East St. Louis, Collinsville and South this season. The top seed at Highland is Edwardsville (11-6), with Highland (11-2) second. Cahokia (11-4) is top-seeded at East.

The sectional winner from East St. Louis will advance to the Carbondale Super Sectional, where the likely opponent will be Effingham, led by 7-2 center Uwe Blab and a pair of 6'5" swingmen, Mitch Arnold and Dale Collinsville was ninth. There are almost no formidable opponents in their way to the Super Sectional. Olney (14-4), Centralia or Carbondale could swing a surprise, but if it happened, it would be a big surprise. The closest any team has come to Effingham is 18 points - and that was with the Heart's junior varsity playing most of the second half.

The Class A Regionals will begin the week of Feb. 25. The Sectionals will be the week of March 3. The Super Sectional will be March 11 and the State Finals March 14 and 15 in Champaign.

The Class AA regionals will be the week of March 3, the sectionals will be the week of March 10. The Super Sectionals will be March 18 and the State Finals March 21 and 22.

Warriors dunned by top-ranked Redbirds

By KEVIN ALLEN of the Press-Record
GRANITE CITY — Granite City South coach Don Deterding was about as defeated as you can get, or so it seemed.

"After having lost to last week's number one ranked team in the area, Collinsville, by nearly 30 points, the Warriors were humbled again here Friday by this week's top-ranked team, Alton."

The 61-40 final score was not easy to take.

"I don't know if and when we've looked as poor as we did tonight," Deterding said. "It was very embarrassing. You have to give some credit to Alton though, they got the open shot and we couldn't. They put the ball in the hole and we didn't."

According to Deterding the problem Friday night was nothing new. It's something that has plagued the Warriors the whole season. Something not easily put into words.

"The mental state of our team has been our downfall all year. You've really got to psyche yourself to play with Alton, and this year we don't seem to have the kind of players who can do that," Deterding said.

It really didn't take long for the Redbirds to extinguish any flames of wild desire on the part of the Warriors.

Actually, by the end of the half any hopes South may have entertained about upsetting a heavy favorite were pretty well done in.

Considering the Redbirds did all that without the aid of their all-star John Smith, who was benched by Alton coach Stan MacAfoos as a disciplinary measure.

Deterding's embarrassment seems justified.

Things went well for South for about a quarter.

The Warriors were scrappy in the first period, forcing Alton turnovers and converting them into points. South held close in the early minutes, there with about two minutes left in the period, began to benefit from apparent lapses on the part of Alton.

Three consecutive times the Redbirds were called for traveling and were forced to give up the ball.

Each time South scored, the last coming on a shot from Kevin Greene which put the Warriors ahead 15-14 at the buzzer.

But then the problem, that lack of intensity that had Deterding troubled, became painfully evident. South scored four points in the second quarter, while Alton caught fire and pulled to a 10-point lead.

"Our defense definitely was our strong suit tonight," MacAfoos said. "If you only getting one shot at the basket the way South was tonight you better make sure you make your shots."

But in the second quarter, South almost helpless in any attempt to score. Even when the Warriors managed to find themselves in position for an easy lay up, the ball wouldn't go through.

And that had a ripple effect on the Warriors overall game.

"When you miss a lay up like that you don't feel much like going back and playing defense," Deterding said.

So, because Alton controlled the boards, South fell deeper and deeper behind. At the half it was 30-19.

The Warriors did redeem themselves somewhat early in the third period. In fact, Deterding said, "The only time we played with any intensity at all was in the first two or three minutes of the third quarter."

South cut the lead to seven points early in the period, but Alton shut that drive off abruptly, once again establishing its rebounding superiority.

At the end of the quarter it was 40-29.

"We wanted to make them respond to our pressure," MacAfoos said. "We knew if they were going to do anything they would have to be able to beat us to the basket."

The strategy worked well, as Alton and especially Tracy Washburn simply pushed the Warriors into a corner from which they could not escape.

The final period was little more than a scrimmage. Alton, with Washburn's 15 points leading the way, had thoroughly intimidated South.

"I'd hate to have to play with Smith in the line up," Deterding said. "Everything I've heard about Mr. Washburn was proven tonight."

Cougars edge Maryville

EDWARDSVILLE — It wasn't on prime time sports television, but the victory that Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville's basketball team scored over a battling Maryville College five Saturday night at Country Day High School in St. Louis County, had every bit as many thrills.

The SIUE Cougars won the cliffhanger, 61-59, but the outcome was in doubt until the final three seconds when the winners' veteran point guard, Greg Payne, made the front end of a one-and-one to run the score to final two-point margin of victory.

The victory upped the Cougars' record to 10-9 and dropped the Saints of Coach Dave Pierce to 9-9. It had looked like a runaway for the Cougars early on as they jumped out to a 6-0 lead on a pair of driving lay-ups by Tom Schmidt and a slam-dunk by Jerome Nelson. But, the second of Al Treichel's six first half baskets then sparked the Saints' nerve-rattling rally which saw them leave the Cougars wondering what had happened to them, as Maryville scouted out to a 18-8 lead in less than three minutes.

There were two obvious reasons for the Cougars' drought in scoring: Tom Schmidt suffered an eye injury and their leading scorer, Bill Branz, who was double-teamed by the Saints' Treichel and Bill Schueller, was held to just two baskets in the first half.

Branz leads the Cougars this season with 16 points per game average. However, Branz's two baskets that first 20 minutes did come in an opportune time to reduce the Saints' lead to 31-30 at the intermission. In between Branz' two baskets, Scott Kabbs SIUE's standout guard, bombed one in from 20 feet and then was fouled in the act of shooting. Kabbs' national leading consecutive free throw record this season topped at 41 as he missed his try.

Also contributing to the Cougars' first half problems was the fact that their big (6-7) forward, Ted Smith, was colder than the Country Day High gym. He failed to make a shot the first half and, in fact, didn't hit at all until 1:27 was left on the clock. However, that two points gave the Cougars a 59-55 lead, and, just seconds later, he was fouled and he coolly made both, increasing the lead to what appeared to be a safe, 60-55, margin. But, the losers' Schueller made three in a row and Mike Jenkins banked shot cut SIUE's lead to 60-59 with three seconds left on the clock.

Payne's free throw made it 61-59 and the Cougars held on to win it.

Benton Tournament Three-way deadlock

BENTON — A three-way deadlock for first place in the Benton Invitational Tournament was the end result of a "noble experiment" by tournament officials.

The "experiment" was the first-ever six team round-robin tourney at Benton. The past five years the tournament was conducted as an eight-team double-elimination affair. Benton, Okawville and Pinckneyville each finished the five-game meet with 3-2 records and tied for the top spot. Edwardsville was 2-3 and Olney was 1-4.

Friday, Edwardsville lost to Benton 75-66. Pinckneyville came from behind in the last minute and a half to edge Olney 75-71 and Okawville beat Cairo.

Saturday, Olney beat Benton 72-60, Edwardsville beat Cairo 65-62 and Okawville was whipped by Pinckneyville 73-55 in the afternoon session.

In the Saturday night session, Cairo downed Olney 79-70. Okawville beat Edwardsville 65-57 and Benton beat Pinckneyville 65-53.

Other members of the first team were Gorder Showalter of DuQuoin, Bryn Perry of Marissa and Mike Ray of Waterloo.

The second team included John Hand of Marissa, Danny Wesbecker and Jim Anderson of fourth-place Springfield. Gary Dion of Karry Malone of DuQuoin.

South roughs up Comanches

By DOUG IRVIN of the Press-Record

CAHOKIA — The wrestling Warriors of Granite South put their reputation on the line as they traveled here Friday to contest the 15-1 Comanches. Most thought it would be a tough match, and at times it was. But, South connected victories with a few of the toss-up matches and won the dual, 20-18. The Warriors' record advanced to 18-1.

Perhaps the most exciting bout as the 138 pound exhibition of wrestling skill between the Saints' Tom McElroy (20-6) and Cahokia's Bob Kofron (26-1). No takedown occurred in the opening two-minute period. In the second of the three periods no points were to be awarded.

The South junior took the start referee's position to start the final two minutes. After a hard fought 1:44, McElroy escaped to take a 1-0 lead. Eight seconds later, McElroy took Kofron down for two more points and won the dual, 3-0.

Throughout the meet, only two Warriors pins were taken place. At 145, Dean Perkins stout sophomore Bob Sidwell of Cahokia, in 2:29. And Rich James, 185 for the Warriors, pinned Clarence Byrum, at the 2:50 mark.

The dual meet started off with a 6-4 draw in the 98 pound bout. South's Mike Trgovich led 4-2 going into the third period, when Bob McDaniel managed to tie the score.

At 105, South's Chris Cottrell lost 7-2 to Phil McIntyre. Cottrell wrestled at 98 for the Warriors at the beginning and throughout most of the season until their regular 105-pounder was hurt. Through the lack of another 5-pounder, Cottrell was moved up a weight to avoid a constant forfeit.

Greg Garland, South's entry at 112, decided John McKenzie, 9-5, to tie the team score at 5-5. Randy Lupardus, a 119 pound Warrior, beat James Cozart, 8-6. At 126, South's Mike Niebur fell victim to a mark Lorensten near-side cradle at the 1:30 mark.

Rodney Lupardus, 132, tied the team score again at 11-11 with an 8-3 decision over Cahokia's Todd Bradshaw. Then, McElroy beat Kofron. Perkins followed with his pin. South led 20-11.

Warrior Drew Clement, at 155, lost 9-1 to Kevin Corral. Corral, a senior, was 451-916. 3304 NAMEOK RD. PHONE 451-9116

Bement; at 167, South's Jim Frangoulis easily whipped Frank Bergman, 16-6. James, at 185, then pinned Byrum. Bruce Monahan, South's 220-pound heavyweight, lost a tight match to Keith Cruise, 5-3.

"It was a tough meet," said Bill Schmidt, South's mentor. "I'm happy with the results. The kids wrestled tough."

This Thursday (Jan. 31), the Warriors enter the cross-town rivalry with their sister school - Granite North at North.

Educational development test Feb. 7

The National Education Development Test (NET) will be given to interested Granite City sophomores on Thursday morning, Feb. 7, in Room 213.

Sophomores with "B" averages or better can benefit from this test, which compares their educational development with that of other sophomores taking the test in high schools throughout the country, a spokesman said.

"The test will not affect your grades, but it will help you, your parents and your counselor objectively to view your strengths and weaknesses. It can help you plan a high school program in terms of your abilities. The test also gives you experience in taking a test very much like the pre-college examinations for college," students are being told.

The fee for the test is $1.95 and must be paid by Feb. 1. Money will be collected in the guidance office before school, during homeroom, or after school.

Members of the SUE team include Mark Drucker, John Flanders, David Huntley and Annette Baich.

College Bowl teams from the local and Carbondale campuses of Southern Illinois University will compete in an intercollegiate match which will be taped for television this evening at SUE.

The intercollegiate match will be preceded by a 6:30 match between the SUE All-Stars and the SUE faculty. The match between the student teams will begin at 7 p.m., lasting approximately 30 minutes.

Both events are scheduled in the television studio of the Communications Building at SUE.

Lyle Ward, coach of the SUE team, said KETC Channel 9, the area public broadcast television station, has expressed interest in presenting the videotape of the program that will be produced.
